DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-20 and 44, drawn to a system sensing processing conditions including substrate comprising sensors to measure processing conditions of the substrate, and one or more electronics platforms mounted to the surface of the substrate comprising signal acquisition circuitry, classified in class 73, subclass 866.1 or 754.
- II. Claims 21-36 and 45, drawn to a device monitoring processing conditions comprising a substrate with first perimeter, an electronics module with second perimeter, power source and leads, classified in class 73, subclass 866.1 or 754.
- III. Claims 37-43, drawn to a device monitoring processing conditions with first member including sensors, second member including electronics, cable connecting members, members fitting within robot hand, classified in class 73, subclass 866.

Inventions II and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require one or more electronics platforms mounted to the surface of the substrate. The combination has an advantage of keeping electronics outside a processing chamber where the separate sensor are exposed to damaging temperature. The subcombination has separate utility such as a device for monitoring temperature, pressure and flow conditions within an HVAC system.

Inventions III and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require one or more electronics platforms mounted to the surface of the substrate. The combination has the advantage of monitoring conditions at a robot hand that is moving about a processing chamber wherein the processing conditions vary as a consequence of the motion. The subcombination has separate utility such as a device for monitoring temperature, pressure and flow conditions within an HVAC system.

Inventions III and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require substrate with first perimeter, an electronics module with second perimeter. The combination has the advantage of monitoring conditions at a robot hand that is moving about a processing chamber wherein the processing conditions vary as a consequence of the motion. The subcombination with specific perimeters has separate utility such as fitting within a corresponding holder securing the device in a predefined manner within a chamber.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Groups II and III and the search required for Group II is not required for Group III, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
